

IF WE DON'T TEACH KIDS

THE ILL EFFECTS OF PUTTING

JUNK

INTO THEIR BODIES, THE JUNK ITSELF WILL TEACH THEM.

IT JUST TAKES A FEW DECADES.

WE'RE PROUD TO ANNOUNCE WE'RE NOW FUNDING HEALTH PROGRAMS.

Here's an idea. Let's let our great Marin County teachers teach our kids how to be healthy, happy eating machines. You know, instead of letting the lessons of Mr. French Fries and Ms. Two-Liter-Bottle-Of-Cola-For-Breakfast get passed along whether we like it or not. Helping to provide our kids with healthy in-school meals, nutritional information and a shining spotlight on the dangers of junk food, well, that's where we come in. We've spent the last half-decade working to improve literacy, technology and the arts for all the kids of Marin County, but now, we're adding health to our roster. And who are we exactly? We're SchoolsRule and we're here, with your help, to make a difference in the lives of the kids — each and every one of them — in Marin County.

We're what happens when you take a group of dedicated public school foundations, put them hand-in-hand with the Marin County Office of Education and then sit back and watch as they work their tails off to ensure that there isn't a kid roaming a school hallway from Sausalito to Novato or from San Rafael to Tomales who isn't being given the very best opportunities. It's simple: you donate money to a great cause, SchoolsRule takes that money and divides it up based on a per-student basis and then sprinkles it evenly over the whole of the county. It's not just a good idea, it's an idea that works, time and time again.

A "complete meal" doesn't mean finishing all 12 slices of a large meat lover's pizza. We know what being happy and healthy looks like. Now it's time to make sure our kids know it as well.
